

Local Health Integration Networks (LHINs)

LHINs are not-for-profit corporations that work with local health providers and community members to determine the health service priorities of their regions. They were created in April 2006, and take on their full role of planning and funding health services April 1st, 2007. LHINs do not provide services directly, but are instead responsible for integrating services in each of their specific geographic areas.

Through community engagement, LHINs work with local health providers and community members to develop integrated health service plans for their local area. LHINs are based on a principle that community-based care is best planned, coordinated and funded in an integrated manner at the community level, because local people are best able to determine their health service needs and priorities.
